Lg tv won't connect to bluetooth headphones

Of all the TV brands on the market today, LG may have the most Bluetooth enabled options. Nearly every TV they make comes Bluetooth 5.0 enabled. Do LG TVs Have Bluetooth? Yes, the following LG TV series have Bluetooth: OLED, QNED MiniLED, NanoCell and 4K Ultra. To enable Bluetooth on your LG TV go to Settings > Sound > Sound Out > Bluetooth and then select your device. Make sure the device you're connecting is in pairing mode, otherwise it won't appear! How to enable Bluetooth on your LG TV Before we get into the exact steps to follow to get your Bluetooth working on your TV, make sure that the device you are trying to pair is in pairing mode! I know this sounds obvious but you would be surprised how often people run into this issue. They don't see their headphones or sound-bar in the Bluetooth drop down menu because they never put their device in pairing mode. Every device requires something slightly different to get it into pairing mode. Air-pods, for example, require you to press and hold the button on the case until the white light starts blinking. Most other devices follow a similar pairing process. Ok, now that your device is in pairing mode, to enable Bluetooth on your LG TV follow these steps: Click on Settings. If your remote has a gear icon, go ahead and click it. If not you might have to first click on Menu and then navigate to Settings. Then select Advanced Settings.Navigate to the Sound menu and then select Sound Out.Select Bluetooth Device List.Pick your device from the list to start pairing! Once you've enabled Bluetooth, it can take a few seconds before you hear your audio after turning on the TV. That's because when you turn your TV on, it's sending a Bluetooth signal that takes a moment before it connects. So don't worry if the next time you turn on your TV you don't hear anything right away. If you're having any issues connecting your Bluetooth device to your TV, try using the LG Easy Bluetooth Connect Guide. You can also try some of my troubleshooting steps detailed below. How to check if your LG TV has Bluetooth The easiest way to confirm whether a specific class of LG TV has Bluetooth or not is to visit the LG website and check the specifications of your exact television. You can use the filters on the left hand side to narrow down your search. Once you've found your TV, click on it. This will pull up a full page dedicated to your exact TV with a ton of details. We are interested in the "SPECS" tab so go ahead and click on that. Then, if you scroll down the the Connectivity section, you should see a line item for "Bluetooth Support". If it says Yes or Version 5.0, then you have your answer! LG provides a ton of interesting info about your TV here, so feel free to poke around a bit. You can find out if your TV is integrated with any Voice Assistants, like Google Home or Amazon Alexa. There are also details about Intelligent Voice Recognition, TV response time for gaming, and much more! Troubleshooting LG TV Bluetooth connection issues Occasionally you'll run into some issues getting your device to connect to your LG TVs Bluetooth. If you do, don't panic. Here are some of the most common fixes you should try. All of them take no more than a minute or two and are easy to implement: Remove/Forget your Bluetooth device from your LG TV and try re-pairing it Unplug your LG TV from the wall for 60 seconds. While unplugged, press and hold the power button on the TV for 10 seconds. This will power-cycle your TV and fully reset it. Turn off the device you're trying to pair and then turn it back on again. Make sure you are no more than 30 feet (10 meters) away from your LG TV. This is the max range for Bluetooth. Also if other Bluetooth devices are nearby, try turning them off during setup. Sometimes these other devices can create a lot of interference. Reset your router/modem by unplugging it, waiting 60 seconds then plugging it back in. Make sure your LG TV successfully reestablishes its WiFi connection. Make sure your LG TV is running the latest Firmware. Make sure the Bluetooth device you're trying to connect is running the latest Firmware. If, after trying all of these fixes, you're still having issues with your LG TV's Bluetooth, you should consider contacting LG support directly. Conclusion Yes, most LG TVs come with Bluetooth enabled out of the box! The majority of LGs main TV classes, OLED, QNED MiniLED, NanoCell and 4K Ultra, have Bluetooth options. To enable bluetooth on your LG TV go to Settings > Sound > Sound Out > Bluetooth and then select your device. Just make sure the device you're trying to connect is in pairing mode. If you're not entirely sure whether or not your LG TV has Bluetooth you can always visit LGs website, search for your exact TV and then review the SPECS. If, under the Connectivity section, it says Yes or Bluetooth 5.0 then you're in luck! Let me know in the comments below if you run into any issues during setup. I'd also love to know if your specific LG TV doesn't have bluetooth – include the model name in your comment. If you can't hear your TV well and you don't want to blast the volume, connecting wireless headphones to your TV is a good & easy way to let you hear it better. This can be done on pretty much every LG TV, whether it's a Smart TV or not. Some TVs come with built-in Bluetooth capabilities, some don't... either way, we'll help you get it done. Please check your LG user manual to see whether your TV has Bluetooth built-in or not. If your TV DOES have built-in Bluetooth 1. Get your Headphone/Speaker into Pairing Mode. 2. Take your LG remote, Select the Settings icon. 3. Select Advanced Settings. 4. From the Sound menu select Sound Out. 5. Select LG Sound Sync Bluetooth from the list, then select Detect. 6. If your Device is in Pairing mode, it should appear on the list. 7. Choose your Device from the list to pair. If your TV DOES NOT have built-in Bluetooth If your TV does NOT have built-in Bluetooth, or if you'd like to connect MORE THAN ONE PAIR of headphones to your TV simultaneously, you'll have to connect using a Bluetooth Audio Adapter, somthing like these: Avantree Orbit (ONLY Bluetooth Transmitter on the market with LCD Screen Display) Avantree Audikast Plus Avantree Oasis Plus Check more Bluetooth headphones for tv With these, you'll be able to: - Get extended Bluetooth Range. - Connect up to TWO PAIRS of headphones to your TV (adapter) simultaneously. - In the case of Oasis Plus, it can be used simultaneously with a SoundBar/Stereo Receiver while sharing ONE Digital Optical Port (See THIS ARTICLE for more details regarding this function.) Here are the Instructions: 1. Connect your Bluetooth adapter to Power. 2. Connect the Bluetooth adapter to TV. Our adapters support Digital Optical (aka TOSLINK or SPDIF,) 3.5mm Auxiliary (aka Headphones Jack,) and RCA (Red/White) Audio Output Ports. Please see your adapter's user manual for more details. 3. Get your Headphones into pairing mode (Please see your headphone's user manual.) 4. Get your Bluetooth adapter into Bluetooth Pairing mode as well. Please see your user manual if you're not sure how. 5. Keep your the Headphone and the Adapter close to each other until they connect. 6. Once connected, if you're using Digital Optical connection, please go to your TV settings menu and change your Digital Audio Format to PCM. 7. And you'd be good to go! Last edited by a moderator: Sep 20, 2019 Besides having Bluetooth, your LG Smart TV should support LG Wireless Sound Sync. Depending on the TV model, you might be able to connect a Bluetooth keyboard, play music on the TV speakers from your phone, or connect to Bluetooth headphones. To check if you have that option. Press the Home button on the TV remote Click on the Settings icon (top right corner) Click Sound, then click Sound out. By default, the Sound out is set to TV speakers. Click the LG Sound Sync (Wireless) and the Device selection pink button will appear. Click the Device selection pink button and the TV will search for Bluetooth devices, so make sure your Bluetooth headphone is in pairing mode. When the device shows up on the TV screen, click it to establish a connection. When connected, it will appear under paired devices.
