Ice hockey world championships 2019 tv schedule

Follow the latest daily buzz with the BuzzFeed Daily newsletter! BEIJING, Feb. 4, 2020 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Infront, Wanda Sports Group (Nasdaq: WSG) company and exclusive media and marketing partner of the International Ice Hockey Federation (IIHF), broke records at the 2019 World Ice Hockey Championships, reaching an accumulated audience of more than 1.6 billion, according to data provided by X Media Sports Consulting GmbH. It was the fourth consecutive year that the tournament surpassed one billion spectators. Infront secured broadcast agreements for more than 155 territories and provided more than 200 hours of footage of the tournament, which took place in Slovakia from May 10 to 26, 2019.Reaching fans through broadcast and digitalThe production team on site of more than 130 members delivered the best moments of the tournament through a configuration of 30 cameras , bringing fans to the heart of the action. The transmission technology for the final weekend included two 4G cameras, as well as ultraconor slow camera cameras, ref and cable. In addition, a dedicated broadcasting services team was on site at both locations to coordinate broadcast and production activities. The production was further supported by digital initiatives including behind-the-scene videos and a new daily podcast, The Totally Ice Hockey Show, which attracted more than 120,000 listeners, giving them an even deeper analysis and overview of the track. More than 2,500 music videos were posted on IIHF’s social networks, attracting more than 88 million views —a 118% increase over previous tournaments. In addition, through a partnership with YouTube, fans who watched online were able to easily find the best content and moments of the IIHF with the launch of a newly formed network of creators, which used a range of social media influencers who delivered daily content to IIHF platforms. Creation of the best platform for sponsorshipactivationSo tournament offered all 13 official sponsors an ideal platform to fully engage with ice hockey fans. For example, SKODA – the Guinness world record holder for the biggest sponsorship of a world championship through his ongoing agreement with the IIHF – took this opportunity to announce his kamiq small SUV vehicle. The sponsors also benefited from a unique event space, planned and coordinated by Infront. Infront took advantage of its presence to create engagement for sponsors at venues, which were attended by more than 470,000 fans during the tournament. More than 5,000 VIP guests were able to enjoy the exclusive space, which featured gourmet food and guest services throughout the tournament. ProSports Senior Vice President Bruno Marty said: Our goal for the IIHF World Ice Hockey Championship is the same every year – to build and what we previously provided and set a new standard. For the 2019 edition, we were able to add another layer to the full service for IIHF, our long-term partner. I look forward to successful tournament in 2020 in Switzerland. Wanda Sports Group President and CEO Hengming Yang said: We are excited to see Infront’s dedicated efforts to leverage its technology and expertise to generate additional value for our customers. This new benchmark in fan engagement and sponsor exhibition is the result of WSG’s strong partnership with IIHF and further reinforces the growth opportunities available to us in the spectator sports business. The 2020 World Ice Hockey Championships will take place in Zurich and Lausanne, Switzerland, from 8 to 24 May. You also don’t want to hear, after the fact, that a cable network ran a marathon of reruns of Law & Order: SVU all day long. Perhaps your desires are a little more practical--- how to set limits for your children by printing the broadcasts they can watch. Either way, you’ll delight family members by creating a personal TV schedule that’s fluid enough to be updated regularly. See a guide (newspaper, magazine, Internet or broadcast) for reference. Make a list of programs you don’t want to miss or those your children can watch with your blessing. Include in the broadcasts on the list that you were eager to watch, but lost because your printed TV schedule was too crowded to find them. Boot your computer and your software of choice. Set up an 8.5 x 11 size portrait document. Choose the Index and Tables command found below the Insert tab if you are doing your TV schedule using Microsoft Word or another word processing program. Excel and other worksheets will provide a grid when you open the page. Select and use similar commands found in the page layout program. Draw banner at the top of your TV schedule that is customized for family members. Drag or insert a text box at the top of the page. Customize the document by writing, for example, Mom’s TV Calendar in large letters above. Customize a TV TV for your children by putting their names on the banner. Add your photos to the timeline by inserting, importing, or dragging image boxes and photos on the banner. Drag or insert an eight-column text box below the identification banner. The configuration of the left column should be the widest because you will enter the names of the programs vertically in this column. The other seven will have headers that will read from Sunday to Saturday. If you want to make the location of the programs very easy, add a ninth column to the right of each program’s name and key in the channel number or station call letters. Enter your week’s program names with follow-up times, starting with the first Sunday shows. Use the document as a template for future changes, such as frequently watched programming moved to different times, canceled shows, and new program premieres. Every week, update the schedule so you always have a new list of programming alerts at your fingertips. Want to impress the guests? Customize a TV schedule with your names. Put the sheet on their bedside. What better way to make them feel welcome than to let them get into local stations numbers so they don’t wear out the guest room remote in search of the news.m 11:00 p.m. Tips If you prefer someone else to design your TV programming model, check out the links below for a variety of free patterns and downloads.
